Sacred Wind and Enchantment Recycling to Hold Recycling Event – November 29

Albuquerque, NM, November 4, 2008 –Sacred Wind Communications Community Connect, Inc., a non-profit organization serving the Navajo people on tribal lands in New Mexico, will be holding an electronics recycling event with Wal-Mart's support on Saturday, November 29th. The event will be held at the Wal-Mart located at 400 Eubank NE (near the I-40 Eubank exit) from 11:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m.

Sacred Wind's non-profit will be working with Enchantment Recycling, an “environmentally friendly” electronic recycler, to take in all old ewaste that the community wishes to donate. Items that will be accepted for FREE are:, computers, PC's, towers, cell phones, telecommunications equipment, consumer electronics, MP3 Players, monitors, rechargeable batteries, printers, copiers, walkmen, keyboards, and mice. TV's to be recycled will cost $10 to drop off. The computers donated to us at this event that are in good working order will be passed on to low-income Navajo on reservation land. The rest of the ewaste will be disposed of by Enchantment Recycling with green recycling in mind.

Technology has revolutionized our lifestyle, mostly for the better, but the brisk pace of changing technology means that electronic devices become quickly obsolete. It is important that this material not find its way into our already overburdened landfills, especially since lead and mercury in some of these devices can contaminate our soil and water supply. By attending this recycling event and bringing in used computers and other electronic devices, computers will be donated to people in need, and you will be supporting the environment.

The Wal-Mart Store on Eubank has agreed to support Sacred Wind's non-profit in this endeavor by allowing the event to be held in their parking lot. Additionally, the CocaCola Company will be giving away free samples of their Vitamin Water for anyone who attends. If you have any questions or comments, you can call Sacred Wind's non-profit at 798-1193, or Enchantment Recycling at 232-9483.
